Governor Harris has named April 17, as "Arbor Day."

Will Reynolds, of Akron, is given out as the guilty party who mailed the sensational Taft literature from Columbus that raised such a stir in Republican circles.

The movement undertaken by the News to give the outlying districts of the city all night light service being successfully accomplished the paper will undertake to urge the improvement of Nimschillen creek in the east end of the city so as to prevent the destructive floods that occur in that quarter nearly every spring. This is an improvement that should not be delayed. The great manufacturing interests of that part of the city as well as that of the various property owners affected by the floods demand the serious attention of the authorities and the prompt application of any remedy that is possible.

It is strange how soon an honest man becomes converted to strange doctrines when he discovers that dollars flow his way when new rules are applied. In the state treasurer's office, by a series of progressions, honest men refused to disclose where the state's $6,000,000 had been placed and calmly tell the public it is none of their business if the state money is placed in banks owned almost entirely or in part by the officials placing the money. When it is stated that the profit between what the state depositaries pay for the money and what they get for it in the way of loans amounts to $250,000 per year, a strong inducement to change views is apparent.

Charles C. Green, the Republican candidate for state treasurer, who says it is none of the public's business if he owns stock in banks where state funds are deposited, was an office boy for L. B. Cameron when he was treasurer of Columbiana county, and also later treasurer of the state. Cameron is now president of a trust company in Columbus. It is a matter of history that almost every state treasurer becomes a bank president after he leaves the treasurer's office. It is the influence brought by the banks holding state funds that nominated Green, and when it is considered that $6,000,000 is deposited and no record kept other than memo slips it is not to be overlooked that the influence is great. It is not to be wondered at that Green, or in fact anyone, could be nominated in face of a public scandal when the placing of $6,000,000 is at stake.

Useful Yet.

My little boy has learned a lot since first he started off to school; Much that I long ago forgot he has but lately learned by rule; I once knew how to parse, but now the knack somehow is gone from me; He fairly chews the grammar up; he knows the whole thing to a T; Sometimes he is inclined, I fear, to look upon me with disdain; But I still come in handy here—I earn the pleasures that we gain.

I cannot name the boundaries of Burma or Beloochistan; He does it with the greatest ease, and proudly shows me that he can; He works out problems that I shun, although I could have solved them once; Sometimes I more than half suspect that he regards me as a dunce; Perhaps I might go back and learn if I had fewer daily cares; But, after all, 'tis I that earn the food he eats, the clothes he wears.

My little boy is learning fast, while I forget, year after year; The records of the misty past, to me so vague, to him are clear; He writes a better hand than I, his letters are more plainly made; He spells words that I cannot spell without the dictionary's aid; He is inclined sometimes, I fear, to think my boyhood was mispent; But I still come in handy here; I foot the bills and pay the rent.

COAL DEALERS IN CLEVELAND HAVE "BAD" LIST

Cleveland, March 11.—Max Sternlicht testified in the case against C. A. Albright, member of the alleged coal trust, in Justice Phillips' court Wednesday, that Secretary H. G. Brayton, of the Coal Dealers' Protective Association, told him "his name was Dennis" as long as he understood the price list of the association concerns.

He said he was told he was liable to a $50 fine by the association for this act. He then quit the association and from that time on, he said, he could not get a sufficient coal supply for his trade.

Sternlicht, who lives at 8238 Broadway S. E. was the first witness Wednesday. He verified various coal price lists submitted as evidence by the prosecution.

He said Secretary Brayton called upon him at his office. It was then that he saw these lists.

Another list offered—Sternlicht called it "a bad list"—was shown him. His name appeared on it. He said Brayton told him his "name would be Dennis" as long as his name was on the list.

Sternlicht said Brayton told him he could not get any amount of coal as long as he cut prices.

Attorney W. H. Boyd, for the defense, was busy during the entire examination, moving to strike out or noting exceptions.

In August, 1905, it was testified by exhibit, Sternlicht had become removed from the "bad list." Boyd protested against comparison of exhibits, showing the disappearance of the witness' name, but was overruled.

Sternlicht said that during the time he was in the association he could get coal to supply his trade. When he left the association, he said, he could not get coal.

TOM TO HAVE BIG SHOW THIS FALL

Cleveland, March 11.—The biggest and best show of its kind in the world—a mammoth one-ring, continuous performance exhibition of ardor and oratory—shown under the greatest political canvas top in history—come one, come all—admission free and a hot time guaranteed.

Such may be the style of posters plastered over Ohio when Mayor Tom gets going in the coming campaign. For the mayor is planning some political work that will make his renowned tent canvass in his gubernatorial race seem only a sideshow. The mayor is now negotiating for the purchase of a great tent from Walter L. Main's circus, which is going out of business.

Excessive Drinking

Orrine Destroys the Craving for Drink
Sold Under Positive Guarantee.

Excessive or continued use of alcoholic beverages always results in a diseased condition of the nervous system.

The drinking man is often heard to say, "I can stop of my own free will and when I wish," but the poor fellow is now devoid of the power to act at the proper time and in the right way—it's too late, the craving has secured a firm hold and because of the diseased nervous system he has not the ability for sustained effort. The result we all know.

Drunkennes is no longer considered a crime; eminent specialists and physicians have agreed that it is a disease and must be treated as such.

The home treatment that has been used for a number of years, and is highly successful is Orrine. It is sold under a positive guarantee that if it does not effect a cure your money will be refunded.

Orrine is in two forms. When desiring to give secretly, purchase Orrine No. 1, and if the patient will voluntarily take the treatment, Orrine No. 2 should be given. The guarantee is the same in either case. Orrine costs but $1.00 per box. Mailed in plain sealed wrapper on receipt of price. Write for free treatise on "Drunkennes," mailed in sealed envelope by The Orrine Co., Washington, D. C. Sold by leading druggists everywhere and in this city by Roth & Hug, 323 E. Tus. St.

GASOLINE EXPLOSION
Causes Fire in W. & L. E. Pump House in Which Night Man Is Severely Burned.

The frame pumping station along the Wheeling & Lake Erie tracks near the roundhouse of the company was totally destroyed by fire early Wednesday morning, and James Cunningham, the night man at the station, was severely but not seriously burned. The fire was caused, it is thought by the explosion of gasoline used in the engine at the station and 19 barrels of gasoline were burned.

Just how the fire started is as yet a mystery but it is supposed that Cunningham went into the engine room to start the engine and as he carried a lighted lantern the supposition is that the explosion was the result.

The fire department went to the scene but could do very little except keep the flames from spreading although they laid 900 feet of hose.

Cunningham was taken to Aultman hospital and after his burns were dressed Dr. A. C. Brant stated that he did not think the man was fatally injured although he had a narrow escape from death by burning.

to $3,848,000. Of this amount of security more than $2,000,000, he said, was given by the American Surety company of New York, which has a capital stock of $2,500,000 and a surplus of some $2,000,000.

He considers it about the safest surety company in the world, "but," he pointed out, "it is on security in other states and for various commercial enterprises and undoubtedly it is surety for much more than its evident resources. If some big panic should happen to hit that company the state would lose by it."

"The American company is surety in a great many states," said McKinnon. "I never liked surety company security as well as municipal bonds, but the law causes me to accept them. Until a few years ago they were not acceptable under the law but Governor Herrick got the law changed."

STATE STANDS TO LOSE.

The state also stands to lose money by the poor way in which the treasurer signs his checks, Latham pointed out. The line following the amount of the check is left blank so that it would be an easy matter, he said, for someone to raise the check without the bank noticing it. He said that no perforating stamp limiting the amount of the check, was used at all.

That banks have changed their security without any note of it being made by the state treasurer was charged by Latham.

The Dime Savings bank of Canton according to the certificate of deposit, became a state depository December 16, 1906, while its security shows it to have been a depository December 27, 1904; January 3, 1906, the Cleveland Trust company held $25,000, while its bond was dated December, 1904, and was for $50,000.

The Capital Trust company of Columbus received $50,000 on deposit January 27, 1906, while the security now in the office shows that the latter was not received until August 1, 1906.

McKinnon declared that there never had been a time when the state was not protected by security, however. The Union National bank of Cleveland received $20,000 December 8, 1904, yet the security now is dated January 11, 1907.

There was some question between Latham and McKinnon as to the security of the Superior Savings & Trust company of Cleveland. The certificate showed it held $175,000 and the security was but $145,000. A search by the accountants Tuesday failed to reveal any more security.

Wednesday Cashier Green brought forth the additional security, which he said had been in the office all the time.

AT MERCY OF BANKS.

"The treasurer is entirely at the mercy of the banks," stated Latham. "He has no record of the security, what it consists of, nor where it is from. The system of keeping track of things here is so incomplete that there is nothing for us to get at the bottom with. I think that McKinnon could keep up a modern system of McKinnon had told the committee Tuesday that he needed an extra bookkeeper.

"What I find here is poor system. I do not question Mr. McKinnon's or Mr. Green's honesty," added Latham. Latham reviewed his work in the past few weeks, pointing out that checks received in payment of interest on deposits when he took up his work February 25 were not yet deposited in the treasury. He said that he found that properly made out pay orders were used for everything else paid into the treasury except the interest money.

The pay-in order for that was made out by the state auditor on information of the treasurer instead of the banks, so that, he said, the auditor had no other information than that given him by McKinnon. No record was kept of the deposits save a bundle of certificates, and he said it would be necessary to go over the entire bundle to figure out interest due each quarter.

Latham and his assistant accountant, Standard, will make a formal report to the committee Thursday. What the committee will do Chairman Howe said would be decided after a careful review of the evidence brought out so far.

TO BE FREE

Thaw at any time an attempt to have him released from the asylum might be made.

Dan O'Reilly stated that in the taking of evidence when the action against Harry Thaw is before the supreme court he will have to prove only that the man now confined in the asylum was insane on April 4, 1905, the date of his marriage. Little of the evidence that was adduced in the two trials of Harry on the charge of murder, will be available in the pending suit, but there is one important portion of the testimony offered in the second trial, it is understood, which may have weight in favor of the prosecution of annulment proceedings.

That is the testimony given by Mrs. William Thaw covering her observations of Harry Thaw's mental condition on the day that he drew a cordell to his will providing a fund for the protection of young girls. That was the day of his wedding, and the only date specified in Evelyn Thaw's present suit upon which she alleges that her husband was insane.

One who is close in the confidence of Evelyn Thaw said today that the suit for annulment has been brought by her in a genuine effort to be freed from her husband because of a very serious difference between them which makes the prospect of ever living together in harmony impossible. This person intimated that the insanity grounds for a separation offered the best pretext to Evelyn Thaw for the accomplishment of her desire.

Dr. Vladimir Silko, who attended Harry Thaw while he was a prisoner in the Tombs, went up to Mattawan today at Thaw's request to pay him a professional visit. Dr. Silko said last night after his return from the asylum that Thaw did not seem at all distraught by the news that his wife had commenced a suit for annulment of their marriage and that he received the complaint and summons sent by Don O'Reilly with perfect equanimity. The physician said that Thaw is in perfect health and is a model inmate.
